Three Tigers on National Award Lists

Three Clemson players are on preseason lists for top awards at their respective positions. Keith Adams is on the Butkus Award Watch List, the top candidates for the award given to the nation's top linebacker. He will also be a prime candidate for the Bronko Nagurski Award, which is presented to the top defensive player in the nation.

Senior Robert Carswell is on the preseason list of candidates for the Jim Thorpe Award, which is presented to the top defensive back in the nation. He will also receive prime consideration for the Nagurski Award. Senior receiver Rod Gardner is one of the preseason candidates for the Biletnikoff Award, the honor given to the top receiver in the nation.

Clemson is one of just 12 schools nationally to have at least one candidate for all three awards. The other schools with this preseason award trifecta are Brigham Young, Florida State, Florida, Kansas State, Marshall, Miami (FL), Nebraska, Pittsburgh, Southern Cal, Tennessee, and Virginia Tech.

It is easy to see why the aforementioned Clemson players are on these respective lists. Adams led the nation in tackles (186) and tackles for loss (35) and was second in sacks (16) for the 1999 season, quite an accomplishment for a sophomore.

Adams performance last year shows you that someone can be absent from the preseason lists, then make All-American at season's end. Adams had played just 176 snaps in 1998 and was not close to being a preseason All-ACC candidate. By the end of the year he was a first-team All-American and the ACC Defensive Player of the Year.

Carswell is in his fourth year as a starter for the Tigers and is coming off a season in which he broke a school record for tackles by a defensive back. He was also 10th in the nation in interceptions. He is a first-team preseason All-American. Gardner set Clemson records for receptions and reception yards last year, becoming the first 1000-yard receiver in Clemson history.

No Clemson player has ever won a national position award. Terry Kinard was named National Defensive Player of the Year by CBS Sports in 1982. The Thorpe Award did not exist in those days. That is the highest single postseason national honor received by a Clemson football player.

It is interesting to note that Adams, Carswell and Gardner are roommates. They may need to clear out a storage area in that apartment to store all the trophies and certificates they will accumulate this year.

Clemson in the Preseason Polls

Clemson is ranked in the top 25 of just about every preseason Top 25 poll. The highest ranking Clemson has received gained the most publicity. The Tigers are ranked eighth by Sports Illustrated. Associated Press, the old-

Clemson's Preseason AP Poll History

Clemson is ranked 17th in the preseason Associated Press poll. This is the 17th time since 1936 that Clemson has been ranked in the preseason top 25 of that poll. Clemson's number-17 ranking is its highest preseason ranking since the 1992 preseason. It is the first time Clemson has been ranked in any Associated Press poll since September 22, 1997 when Clemson was also 17th.

A victory or two would move Clemson into the top 15 in the rankings. Clemson has not been ranked in the top 15 in the nation since September 9, 1992 when the Tigers were 15th. Clemson has not been in the top 10 of the AP poll since October 6, 1991 when Clemson was sixth after a 3-0 start. That is the last time Clemson started the season 3-0.

Clemson's highest preseason ranking in the history of the AP poll is a number-four ranking. Clemson had that lofty ranking in 1988 and 1984. The 1988 team finished 10-2 and ranked ninth in the final poll. The 1984 team finished 7-4 and was not ranked in the final AP poll. That team led by William Perry and Mike Eppley did finish 20th in the final New York Times computer ranking.

The preseason poll is not always an indication of future success or failure for the Tigers. Each of the last three times Clemson has been ranked in the preseason top 25, Clemson has failed to finish the season in the the poll. Clemson has not finished in the final top 25 since 1993 when Ken Hatfield's final team was 23rd in the final poll. That is also the last time Clemson was ranked in the top 25 of the preseason and postseason poll.

Ten times Clemson has been ranked in the Associated Press preseason poll and finished the season in the top 25. That includes a streak of five straight years between 1987-91. There have been nine seasons in which Clemson was unranked in the preseason poll, then finished the season ranked in the top 20. That includes the 1981 season when Clemson was unranked in August, then won the National Championship in January. The last time Clemson went from unranked in the preseason to a final top 25 ranking was 1986 when Clemson finished 17th after an 8-2-2 season.

Of the 16 times that Clemson has been ranked in the preseason poll prior to this year, Clemson has finished higher than the preseason ranking just four times (1958, 1978, 1982 and 1990). In one season, 1989, Clemson had the same preseason and final ranking.

Zachery Paces the Running Game

Running back Travis Zachery will be a key to Clemson's rate of success on offense this year. The junior running back is Clemson's top returning rusher with 1455 career yards, including a team best 820 last year. He actually had 827 in 10 regular season games last year, then had-7 in the Peach Bowl when he suffered a dislocated elbow, allowing him to play just five snaps.

Today's Game

Zachery scored 16 touchdowns a year ago, second highest figure in Clemson history and he ranked ninth in the nation in scoring. Only the 17 touchdowns scored by Lester Brown in 1978 is more. Zachery has shown an ability to catch the ball out of the backfield (check action picture in player's section of this program) and has 31 catches for his career, just 14 away from the Clemson career record for a running back.

In addition to his rushing and pass catching talents, Zachery figures to add to his all-purpose yardage by his involvement in punt and kickoff returns. He has 246 punt return yards for his career, but has not had any kickoff return yards entering the Citadel game. Zachery was a preseason first-team All-ACC selection by Athlon, Preview Sports and ATS Consultants this summer. He was also ranked as one of the top 30 candidates for the Heisman Trophy by ATS Consultants.

Clemson vs. The Citadel Series

This is the 35th meeting between Clemson and The Citadel dating to a 17-0 Clemson victory at Charleston in 1909. Clemson won the first five games of the series, including the first three by shutout. The Citadel's first victory came in 1916 by a 3-0 score. The only tie in the series was a 7-7 score in 1921 in a game played in Orangeburg.

Clemson has won the last 13 meeting between the two teams. The Citadel's last victory took place in 1931, a 6-0 win in Florence, SC. After that game, Head Coach Jess Neely, who was in his first year, met with Clemson administrators to see what could be done to improve the Clemson program. IPTAY, Clemson's athletic scholarship fund-raising organization, was the product of that meeting.

The two teams have met just once the last 22 years, a 24-0 Clemson win at Clemson in 1986. In that game, The Citadel's Kip Allen attempted 57 passes, the most ever attempted by a player against Clemson and the most pass attempts by any individual in a game in Death Valley. The Tigers had 18 passes broken up that day, an all-time Clemson record for that category.

Clemson had its greatest team passing game in history against The Citadel in 1978. Steve Fuller and Billy Lott were a combined 15-17 on the day for 245 yards and a touchdown. That .882 completion percentage is best in school history. Fuller was 9-9 on the day, the highest single game perfect passing performance by a Tiger in history.

Another Clemson highlight in the series took place in 1954. Clemson defender Walt Laraway returned an interception 30 yards for a score and returned a blocked punt 39 yards for a touchdown. It is the only time in history that a Clemson player has had two returns for touchdown in the same game.

While The Citadel has not beaten Clemson since 1931, they have come very close on two occasions. In 1973 and 1976, Clemson won consecutive games by 14-12 and 10-7 scores, respectively. The Citadel was coached in those games by current Detroit Lions mentor Bobby Ross. Clemson had to use a Ciro Piccirilli 23-yard field goal with 54 seconds left to beat the Bulldogs in 1976.

Clemson and The Citadel Common Coaches

A check to the coaching history at The Citadel and Clemson reveals many common denominators. In fact, no less than nine former Citadel Coaches were also either former Clemson players or former Clemson coaches.

That list includes four Clemson graduates who were coaches at The Citadel. The list is led by Mike O'Cain, current offensive coordinator at North Carolina, who was an assistant at The Citadel from 1978-80. He was Clemson's team MVP in 1976. The other Clemson grads who were The Citadel assistants are Rick Gilstrap, Bob Patton and Billy Wingo. Wingo was a baseball and football standout at Clemson in the mid-seventies.

Current Clemson assistant head coach Brad Scott was an assistant coach at The Citadel in 1981. Other assistant coaches who are common denominators in each school's coaching history are Dwight Adams, Ellis Johnson, Jimmy Laycock and Danny Smith.

The Citadel Scouting Report

Don Powers Citadel Bulldogs return 18 starters from last year's team, including nine starters on defense. The point prevention unit is led by defensive tackle Mario Richardson and linebacker Denny Haywood. Richardson earned second-team all-conference honors in 1999 after registering 63 tackles, while Haywood enters the season with 247 career tackles, more than any other player in the Southern Conference.

Tight end Jason Barley is atop the list of returning veterans for The Citadel's offense, which uses the flexbone offense, an attack that has not been seen in Death Valley since Ken Hatfield used it to defeat Virginia near the end of the 1993 season. Barley was an all-conference pick in 1998 and caught 17 passes for 194 yards in 1999.

Sophomore Joe Call figures to get the call at quarterback. He played in just five games in 1999, but was an efficient 28-48 for 257 yards and a score. The leading rusher is Maurice Murphy, who gained 547 yards from the full-back position last year. Kenyon Doyle is a player to watch at tailback, as he won the 100 and 200-meter track championships in 1998. Two-year starter Omar Nesbit leads the offensive line.

Head Coach Don Powers is a veteran of 30 years as a coach and student-athlete in college football. He has been the head coach of the Bulldogs since 1996 and has been on the school's staff since 1989. He was the defensive coordinator at The Citadel in 1992, the year the Bulldogs posted an 11-2 record and led Division I-AA in scoring defense.

He was the defensive coordinator at Western Carolina in 1983 when the Catamounts posted an 11-3-1 record and advanced to the Division I-AA National Championship game. One of their three losses was at Clemson that year, 21-10. Obviously his Catamount defense had a pretty good day against a Clemson team that finished the season with a 9-1-1 record, ranked 11th in the nation.

Clemson Returns Staff in Tact

Clemson's coaching staff returns in tact from last year, a rarity in this day of coaching. This is the first time since 1991-92 that Clemson has had the exact same nine full-time assistant coaches and head coach in consecutive years. Clemson is one of three ACC teams that did not make an assistant coaching change in the off-season. Duke and Virginia also return their staffs in tact from last year.

Clemson has one of its most experience staffs in history. In addition to the experience of Head Coach Tommy Bowden, his assistant coaching staff includes two coaches who have been head coaches. Rich Rodriguez was a head coach at Glenville State from 1990-96 and Brad Scott served as head coach at South Carolina from 1994-98.

Defensive coordinator Reggie Herring actually has coached and played in the most bowl games out of all of Clemson's coaches. He has been to 11 as a coach, including five with Clemson, and also participated in three others when he was a player at Florida State. Brad Scott has been to 13 bowls, 12 as an assistant coach and one as the head coach at South Carolina. He is the only Gamecock head coach in history to win a bowl game.

Overall, Clemson's 10 coaches have been involved in 67 bowl games, 22 during their playing days and 45 as coaches.

Travis Zachery scored 16 touchdowns a year ago, the second highest total in school history.

Gary Childress

By Bernie Merritt
Clemson Sports Information

Most little brothers spend a majority of their lives trying to elude the shadow cast by the older brother. No matter how many years separate the two, the younger never seems to be able to be more than just the "younger brother." If both siblings join the same school band, or the same school athletic team or even the same academic club, the younger will always be the overshadowed. However, in the case of Gary and his older brother O.J., the younger sibling is definitely not just the "younger brother."

Both Childresses were brought up playing football since the two were about five or six years old. The brothers have played together on several teams including two McGavock High School teams and of course here at Clemson from 1996-98. Even though coming to Clemson was partly just to be with O.J., there was still more to it than that. "I thought about Tennessee first, yet I wanted to make it easier on my parents to see us both play. It made the transition from high school to college a lot easier but I mainly wanted to prove that I could be my own player and person even with O.J."

Gary made sure he learned from his brother's experiences and he also made sure he chose his own paths in the weight room, in the classroom and on the field. Gary joined the squad in 1996 but red-shirted the season to get a little stronger and a little more experience. In 1997 he finished the season by starting the last four games and six overall.

While O.J. was already a consistent force as a linebacker, Gary was showing the attitude he learned from his brother was going to make him a powerful force on the defensive line. "He always told me to give a 100 percent all the time," Gary said of his older brother. "No matter what O.J. always gave it his all."

In 1998 Gary became a solid starter, appearing in nine of the 11 starting rosters. He ranked 13th on the team in tackles with 32. He had two tackles for loss and a season high five tackles in the Tiger's win over South Carolina in 1998. Gary also participated in at least 30 snaps in 10 of the 11 games. He was a consistent player making at least one tackle in every game and at least three in seven of the Tigers 11 overall games.

"I had a great year in 1998. I was playing good football, I was playing with my brother and I was playing with an outstanding group of guys. That's all I could have asked for that year," he remembered.

After the 1998 season though things got shaken up a bit. His older brother O.J. graduated and moved on to pursue a NFL career with the New York Giants. At the same time Clemson was going through a coaching change after the departure of Tommy West.

Gary Childress learned a lot from his older brother O.J. that has made him a powerful force on the defensive line.

"When Clemson brought in Coach (Tommy) Bowden I was a little nervous but things ran real smooth," Gary said. "It took a while to get used to the more attack minded defense but we adjusted and had a good year in his first season."

Even with the new staff and formation, Gary continued to do what he always did, work hard. He greatly impressed the new staff when they started workouts in the spring.

Coach Thielen Smith, defensive line coach, remembers seeing Gary for the first time as a player with great ability, determination and leadership.

"Gary has a lot of talent and is a good mix for our style of defense," Smith said. "At the first spring and summer workouts we had, he really impressed me and the other coaches with his hard work. We saw a lot of good things out of him."

Unfortunately the 1999 season did not turn out as planned. During the preseason, Gary pulled a calf muscle, an injury that would make him sit out the Marshall game and pretty much cost him the rest of the season. Just like his older brother, Gary would keep giving 100 percent even with the injury. He would play in eight games during the 1999 campaign, but in a limited role. The coaching staff had no choice but to use Nick Eason and Bryant McNeal to fill void left by Gary on the defensive line.

"He had a lot going for him, but the injuries that plague a lot of good athletes are just part of the sport," Smith said. "McNeal and Eason both stepped up to fill the gap but it still would have been nice to see what Gary could have done."

With the hope of playing a vital role for Bowden's first Clemson Tiger team wiped away by the injury, Gary continued to work even harder to come back for his final year as a Tiger.

"O.J. had a couple of injury-filled years but he never gave up," Gary said. "He and I got that from our mother. She would never push us or force us to do anything, but she always said if we chose to do something on our own we should be prepared to give it our best. No exceptions."

Thanks to his mother and brother's advice Gary is now in a position he may not have been in had he given up. With the 2000 season now here, the coaching staff has high expectations for Gary.

"He should battle for a starting job," Smith said. He has battled back from the injury and is working hard. His leadership and work ethic are big pluses for this ball club."

The chance to just play for Clemson with his brother and to make it easier for his parents to see the two compete was all Gary could have asked for.

"It has been great to be a Tiger the last several years. I have competed with a lot of great athletes and have learned a tremendous amount from the coaching staff and from experience," Gary said.

While many of Gary's hopes and dreams have come true, he realizes many people young and old are not quite as lucky. That's why being a part of LIFELINE is so rewarding. The program, Leadership In Football and Education, was started in 1996 by the Tigers in order to reach out to the community both on and off campus. The existing members who make up the group select new players to join whenever another member graduates. There is no set number of people in the group but each one shows great discipline, good attitude, dedication, and most important leadership.

"For me being able to give back means the world. I have been very fortunate to receive all I have," Gary said. "It means a lot more though to see someone less fortunate than I get what he/she truly deserves."

For Gary, being the "younger brother" has not been as it may have seemed. While O.J. was a standout in his own right, so is Gary. He has been a constant leader on and off the field. In the classroom he worked just as hard and will graduate in December in Industrial Education. The thought of playing in the NFL against or with his brother is definitely a possibility. One thing is for sure though, Gary will never be just the "younger brother."

Jason Holloman

By Jacob Barker
Clemson Sports Information

With a nickname like "Hollywood" you might expect to find senior Jason Holloman starring in movies or in a TV sitcom. With Death Valley as his stage, however, Holloman can be seen starring on the gridiron as a starting defensive tackle for the Clemson football team. With such a flashy nickname, Holloman's business-like approach to football and his laid back personality off the field may surprise you.

It was during Holloman's freshman season at Clemson that his defensive coaches recognized his star potential and labeled him with the name "Hollywood." It is a name that has stuck with Holloman over his career at Clemson both on and off the football field. Holloman chuckled as he recalled the first time he realized the name was with him to stay. "During my first day of classes at Clemson, the professors would ask me what I wanted to be called and all the other students in the class would yell out that my name was 'Hollywood.' Ever since then everyone on campus, including my professors, have called me 'Hollywood.'"

According to defensive coordinator Reggie Herring, Holloman's playing style can be characterized not as flashy but rather as steady and consistent. In fact, it has been Holloman's strength and steadiness on the defensive front over his career that has most earned the respect of his coaches.

"The best way to describe Jason Holloman is that he has been very, very solid over his career," stated Herring. "In fact, he has been one of our most steady and consistent performers year in and year out since he has been at Clemson. His solid play and his steadiness are aspects that are greatly appreciated by the whole coaching staff."

With All-Americans Keith Adams and Robert Carswell on his side of the ball, many people often overlook Holloman's importance to the Clemson defense. During his career, Holloman has become accustomed to making big plays in big games and he always seems to be in the right place at the right time. His big play ability is evident by the fact that coming into the 2000 season he ranks 10th in Clemson history in caused fumbles with five. "Over my career I have just tried to play each game as hard as I possibly can. You can't relax on any play because you never know how important that play may end up being in the final outcome of the game," Holloman said.

Holloman attended Lakeside High School in Atlanta, GA where, during his senior season, he was named Most Valuable Player in the county and was selected to play in the Georgia/Florida all-star game in Orlando, FL. While at Lakeside, he excelled not only on the defensive side of the ball but on offense as well. During his freshman season, while playing offensive tackle, he was named Lakeside's most valuable offensive linemen.

He credits the time he spent on offense in high school for better preparing him to play defense at the college level.

"I think I have a big advantage now because I have played on offense before," Holloman stated. "I know many offensive schemes and what the offensive linemen are thinking."

In 1996, when it came time for him to choose a college, several other schools besides Clemson showed great interest in the versatile Holloman. In the end though, it was two of Clemson's most well known trademarks that were the deciding factors in Holloman's decision to become a Tiger.

"Growing up I always loved the color orange and I knew that I either wanted to go to Miami or Clemson. When I came to Clemson on my official visit I saw Lake Hartwell and it was then that I knew this was where I wanted to be," remembered Holloman.

During his sophomore season at Clemson, Holloman was probably the most productive player off the bench on Clemson's 25th-ranked defense. Even without starting a game, he led the Tigers in caused fumbles with three. He also registered four sacks that season, including two against sixth-ranked Florida State in Tallahassee.

Last year as a junior, Holloman started every game for a Clemson defense that led the ACC in sacks. He was second to Terry Jolly in tackles among Clemson's front four linemen, and for the second straight year he tallied four sacks. Against North Carolina, with the score tied at 17-17 in the third quarter, Holloman showed his athletic ability by making a diving interception of a Ronald Curry pass. After that play, Clemson never looked back against the Tar Heels. On their very next possession, the Tigers took the ball 29 yards on five plays to score the go-ahead touchdown. With Holloman's big play as the catalyst, Clemson went on to a 31-20 over the Heels.

"I remember during the Virginia game a week earlier that Terry Jolly and I collided as we were both diving for an interception. So against North Carolina when I had a chance to make the interception I dove for the ball and closed my eyes. When I opened my eyes again I was just hoping that I still had the ball," Holloman recalled.

Just as Herring described Holloman as a steady, rather than a flashy, player, his favorite hobbies outside of football could also be considered anything but flashy. He is a huge NASCAR fan and in 1996, as part of the weekly pregame festivities of the Georgia/Florida high school all-star game, Holloman and his teammates had a chance to attend the Daytona 500. "I am a big Jeff Gordon fan, so getting to go to Daytona was a great thrill and something that I really enjoyed," said Holloman.

Even though his interest in racing began while he was in high school, it wasn't until he got to Clemson that Holloman's 'good ole boy' personality really began to take shape.

"When I first got to Clemson, Corey Hulsey (former Tiger offensive guard) was my roommate and he was big into hunting and fishing. After I went deer hunting with him a couple of times, I was hooked. I love fishing too, but the biggest fish I have ever caught is a two-and-a-half pound bass in Lake Hartwell," laughed Holloman.

In addition to his love for the outdoors, Holloman spends much of his spare time giving back to the Clemson community. He was selected by his peers to be a member of an organization of Clemson football players chosen to represent their team as Leaders in Football and Education (LIFELine). The program was started in 1996 and throughout the school year members are involved in community outreach projects with organizations such as Helping Hands of Clemson and Habitat for Humanity.

"When I first got to Clemson, the LIFE-Line program was just starting and I really looked up to all the guys that were a part of the program. I never thought I would get the chance to be in the program, so I was honored when I was chosen to be a member." As a member of LIFELine, Holloman has welcomed the challenges that accompany its membership.

"It is a pleasure to be a part of such a program because it stands for leadership and that means that you are expected to set a good example for the other players on the team."

With the start of the 2000 season today against The Citadel, Holloman is hoping that a successful senior campaign will propel him into a future in the NFL. With his agility and his versatility, that dream could very well become reality. In fact, his versatility may just land him on the offensive side of the ball again one day.

"I am shooting for the NFL and Coach Bowden is always telling me to aim high," said Holloman. "I think I have the size to play defensive tackle at the next level, but I need to work everyday on my quickness. Several people have also told me, though, that I could also possibly play on the offensive line at the next level."

While the possibility of playing in the NFL excites Holloman, his work in the classroom and with LIFE Line has prepared him for life after football. Holloman is scheduled to graduate in May with a degree in human resources and he plans to approach the job market just as he has approached opposing running backs: head on.

"If the NFL doesn't work out then at least I know I will have my degree from Clemson. I know Clemson has close ties with companies like BMW and Lucent Technologies, so hopefully I will be able to return home and work for one of those companies someday."

Even with all of his success at Clemson, Holloman has not lost site of the people he says are responsible for getting him to where he is today. His parents, Joseph and Melissa Holloman, his younger brother Jonathan, and his older brother Byron have each played integral parts in his development as not only as a football player but also as a person. Byron, played football at Tennessee State while Jonathan is going to attend South Carolina State this fall.

"We are a very spiritual family and my parents have always told me to just do the best that I can with whatever I do in my life. They are constantly reminding me that education is the most important thing in my life and that anything having to do with football is secondary," recalled Holloman.

Aside from the guidance and support of his family, Holloman is also grateful for the physical tools he has inherited from his father.

"My dad has big legs and has always been very strong. My size and leg strength is a gift that I have received from my dad. I know there are tons of people out there who would love to be in my position so I have always tried to work really hard to develop the size and strength I have been blessed with," said Holloman.

Those physical gifts and his work ethic are never more evident than while watching Holloman in the weight room. Overall he is one of Clemson's strongest players and his 617 pound squat lift is fifth-best on the team.

Over his career at Clemson, Holloman has made a name for himself by letting his actions speak for themselves. That's why, if you ever have a chance to spend time with him you might find it ironic that such a normal, down-to-earth guy would have a nickname like "Hollywood." While you probably won't see "Hollywood" starring in a TV sitcom next year, don't be at all surprised to see him starring on Sunday afternoons and to hear NFL announcers around the league calling him by the flashy nickname that has stuck with him ever since his arrival at Clemson.

With the score tied at 17 last year against North Carolina, Holloman's third-quarter interception gave momentum to the Tigers as they cruised to a 31-20 win.

Jamie Somaini

By Brent Coleman
Contributing Writer

He is 6-1, 220 pounds, bench-presses 430 and has a vertical jump of 36 inches. He hang cleans 330 pounds, power cleans 300, and can bench-press 225 for 24 repetitions. He finished second in the state of South Carolina in the shot-put as a high school senior and came to Clemson in the fall of 1996, in part, to be a decathlete on Bob Pollock's Tiger track team. And...he is a punter/placekicker?

Ever since Jamie Somaini entered Dorman High School in Spartanburg as a high school freshman, he has awestruck coaches with his raw physical strength and kicking ability. With weightroom numbers more suitable for a prototypical inside linebacker, Somaini has had to adjust to the technical necessities required of both punting and placekicking and the mental trials every walk-on Division I football player must endure.

Somaini remembers how his football career began at Clemson, waiting outside of then Head Coach Tommy West's office. "Clemson had recruited me in high school but I was never offered a scholarship. When I got to Clemson my freshman year, I spent two days trying to track coach West down. Finally, on the third day, I got to his office at 6:00 (a.m.) and waited outside his door until he arrived." Somaini quickly grabbed the attention of the Tiger coaching staff with his strong leg and earned a spot on the Tigers 1996 Peach Bowl squad.

In 1997 and 1998, Somaini persevered through nagging injuries and disappointments. The eternal optimist, Somaini would never give up on his dream of garnering playing time for the Tigers. "My constant drive was to prove the people wrong who told me I could not play for Clemson. I could have gone to some smaller schools on a full scholarship and played immediately, but I only wanted to play here."

In 1998, Somaini headed into the fall destined to be the number-one kickoff man, but in early pre-fall practices, he tore a hip flexor that hampered him for the entire season. "That was definitely my toughest year both mentally and physically," Somaini said.

Through three long years on the sidelines waiting for his opportunity, Somaini leaned on his mother, Laraine, for inspiration. "My mom has been my coach from day one. She has taught me that all things happen for a reason. I learned from her to walk by faith and trust in God. She taught me to always think positively."

Somaini's tenacity and work ethic finally paid dividends for him in 1999. He shared kickoff duties with Tony Lazarra and backed up Ryan Romano at punter. In 28 kickoffs, Somaini had five touchbacks and six more were returned out of the endzone. Opponents averaged only 20.6 yards a return on his kickoffs. He even made a touchdown saving tackle versus Marshall in his first game.

Somaini said the most valuable thing he learned in 1999 was how to be a kicker. In high school, he played tight end, full-back and linebacker in addition to his punting/placekicking duties. He first played in Death Valley as a high school junior when Dorman met cross-town rival Spartanburg High for the Big 16 state championship in 1994. That year, Somaini earned all-region II-AAAA honors and was named all-area by the Spartanburg Herald-Journal. "It is tough to get in the flow of the game when you only run out there four or five times a game. Now, I've had a year of playing as a kicker only and I think it will help my mental approach to the game. I wish the average fan could understand how hard kicking really can be."

Over the last two summers, Somaini has worked individually with Randy Brown, who personally coaches 11 punters that are currently on NFL rosters and has coached with the Chicago Bears and Cincinnati Bengals. Brown says that Somaini's potential is unlimited. "Jamie is extremely talented. We have worked hard on his technique. I want him to utilize his great leg strength by driving through the ball rather than on the side of the ball." Brown said Somaini is raw but that he has the physical attributes to even play at the next level. "Jamie controls his own destiny. Once he masters the proper technique, the sky is the limit. It is a great plus for any team to have a guy that can not only punt, but kickoff and handle long field goals."

Somaini already has a link to the NFL. His older sister, Michelle (who graduated from Clemson at the age of 20) is married to Brent Coleman, who works in the front office of the Atlanta Falcons as the team's Assistant Director of Ticket Sales and Operations.

Somaini has set his individual goals high for the 2000 season. "I want to average 45 yards a punt and lead the ACC in punting. If I am as consistent as I should be, I think that is a realistic goal." As for his collection of teammates, Somaini sees a noticeable difference in this group of nationally-ranked Tigers. "Everybody on this team really, really wants to win."

Jamie Somaini is the strongest kicker in Clemson history. He handled kickoffs last year and should add punting chores to his duties in 2000.

When Tommy Bowden and his coaching staff arrived after Somaini's third year in the Clemson program, he noticed an immediate difference. "We have a great coaching staff. They are vocal, intense and are perfectionists. If someone makes a mistake, it's immediately corrected. I love playing for Coach Bowden."

In the weightroom, Somaini has continued to re-write virtually every Tiger strength and conditioning record for punters and kickers. This spring, he became one of two current Tigers (Henry Owen is the other) to be named a "Manster" by Joey Batson, Clemson's Head Strength and Conditioning Coach. The word "Manster" means half man and half monster. To attain "Manster" status (considered improbable by Batson), an athlete must reach the sixth level of weightlifting goals in various lifts and combinations of lifts.

So Jamie Somaini takes the field today versus The Citadel as a strong-legged punter/placekicker who has waited and endured to have his opportunity. If he plays to his potential, he will have a major impact on the Tiger football program in 2000. I wonder what kind of decathlete he would have been?

Jonathan Byrd

By Tim Bourret
Sports Information Director

This is the second straight year I have written an article on Clemson golfer Jonathan Byrd for the Clemson football program. It won't be the last.

This is the second straight year Byrd has been honored as Clemson's IPTAY Athlete of the Year, an award presented in honor of the late Gene Willimon, IPTAY Executive Director between 1950-77 (see page 120). The award is presented to the top all-around student-athlete as voted on by Clemson's head coaches and administrators.

It doesn't take much inspection of Byrd's resume to see why he is the first two-time selection for the award. Quite simply, he is the first student-athlete in Clemson history to be chosen an on-the-field-of-competition All-American and an academic All-American in the same year, twice.

Now, just think about that. It is not very easy to accomplish either one, never mind both in the same year. Out of the thousands of athletes in Clemson history, Byrd is the only person to do it twice.

Byrd has been the corps of an unprecedented era of success for Larry Penley's golf program. "Jonathan has been a dream to coach," said Penley. "He has been a great team leader, someone the younger guys have been able to look up to. He showed great leadership qualities when he was a freshman.

"We have had some great players, great student-athletes. But, Jonathan set a new standard for Clemson golfers and really Clemson athletes in the future. His accomplishments in athletics and in the classroom will be hard for anyone to match."

On the course, Byrd led Clemson to four straight top 10 finishes at the NCAA Tournament, the first time in Clemson golf history that has happened. In fact, it was the first time since the 1980-83 era that any Clemson sports program has posted four straight top 10s. Byrd is the first athlete to start on four straight top 10s since the 1976-79 era when some Clemson soccer players turned the trick.

Byrd was a first-team All-American on the course in 1998-99 and a third-team selection this past year, when he helped Clemson to the ACC Championship and the NCAA Regional title before a seventh place national finish. The native of Columbia, SC is the first four-time first-team All-ACC performer in Clemson golf history and started on three ACC Championship teams.

He was a model of consistency, setting Clemson records for round under par in a career (61), round at par or better (75) and rounds of 75 or better (129). He also tied the record for career rounds in the 60s with 30, a mark he shares with Chris Patton, who will be inducted into the Clemson Hall of Fame next week.

Jonathan Byrd is the first two-time recipient of the IPTAY Athlete of the Year Award.

With all these accomplishments one might think that it would be difficult for him to pick out his most memorable moment at Clemson. But when the question was asked, he gave a quick and surprising answer.

"Camping out for tickets for the Wake Forest basketball game my freshman year," said Byrd. "I remember spending the night in cold weather in a tent outside Littlejohn Coliseum with Charles Warren and Joey Maxon. That was great, there were over 100 tents on the lawn at Littlejohn, I will never forget it. Wake Forest had Tim Duncan and we were both ranked in the top three in the country."

It is obvious that Byrd is one athlete who experienced all aspects of college life. "Really, the things I will remember the most are the friendships I formed with my teammates and the students at Clemson, not my scoring average. I made the perfect choice when I decided to come to Clemson. I can't imagine having gone anywhere else."

Byrd had some opportunities to turn professional, but like all of his predecessors in the program, he stayed all four years, and earned his degree. "Staying four years was the way to go for me. I can't speak for everyone, there are some players who should turn pro early. But, I know I have matured quite a bit during the last four years. I don't regret anything, I wouldn't take anything back."

Now a graduate, Byrd does not regret his decision to come to Clemson or stay for four years. The Clemson golf program and its high level of competition against a national schedule has prepared him for the professional game. His family has prepared him to deal with all aspects of life that will bring new problems as he strives to join the PGA Tour.

Byrd proved to himself that he can compete on the professional level when he finished 29th at the Greenville stop on the buy.com Tour this past summer. "College golf is at the level of the buy.com Tour, so that isn't really that big a change. You just have to go out and get the experience and mindset for tournament golf. In college you are used to the team aspect of the competition."

Another reason Byrd is ready for the next level is the guidance he has received from his parents, Jim and Jo Byrd, and his older brother, Jordan, a former starter on Furman's golf team, who is currently pursuing a professional golf career.

"When I first came to Clemson I didn't think my parents had any of the answers. Four years later I can see they had all the answers. My parents and my brother have given me great advice and guidance the last four years. I couldn't have done any of this without their help. I am lucky to have such a great family."

Byrd has had a busy summer, playing in amateur tournaments, including the Palmer Cup, where he helped the United States to a second straight victory over the Great Britain/Ireland team. In two years on that team, he never lost a match, the only United States player who could make that claim. He will be turning professional soon and his family will be following his career every step of the way.

We probably will have an update on Byrd in this publication in the 2006 season....when he is inducted into the Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame.

President James F. Barker

Clemson University's 14th President, James F. Barker, is first and foremost an architect. So it comes as no surprise that after one year in office, he is already designing a blueprint for Clemson's future — a future built around such ideas as collaboration, community, and quality.

A 1970 Clemson graduate, the former dean of the university's College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities was named president in October 1999, bringing to the job a clear vision of Clemson's future. Barker has outlined a 10-year goal for Clemson to become one of the top 20 public universities in the country.

"South Carolina students deserve to have access to a top-tier education without leaving their home state," he said. "Building Clemson's academic, research and service programs to the level where we can compete with anyone will benefit our state, our students, and our alumni."

Specifics of the 10-year plan include:

- Continuing to excel in teaching;
- Increasing research support to at least $100 million a year;
- Setting the standard in public service by engaging the whole campus in service and outreach;
- Completing the current capital campaign and a subsequent one, exceeding goals in both;
- In athletics, winning another national championship in football and two other sports, and making it to the Final Four at least twice in basketball;
- Sending student performing groups to Carnegie Hall;
- Establishing a thriving Phi Beta Kappa chapter;
- Seeing at least two Clemson students win Rhodes Scholarships;
- Building a greater sense of community and diversity;
- Increasing international programs and activities;
- Seeking out areas where teaching, research and service overlap;
- Focusing on collaboration, with partners both inside and outside the university;
- Improving essential academic resources such as the library.

They are ambitious goals, but goals that Barker believes Clemson can achieve.

"The charge that I have been given is to ensure that the idea of Clemson will be stronger at the end of my service than it is now," he said at his inauguration. "I am convinced that there is no university in America stronger than Clemson when we are 'one Clemson.' A united Clemson is unstoppable."

Barker earned his bachelor of architecture degree from Clemson and his master of architecture and urban design degree from Washington University in St. Louis. Before returning to Clemson in 1986 to serve as dean of the College of Architecture, he was dean of the School of Architecture at Mississippi State University. In 1995, he became dean of the new College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities, which was created after a comprehensive reorganization and has received national attention as a new model in education.

He is a recipient of the National Distinguished Professor Award of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture and served as president of that association. Barker was named Fellow of the American Institute of Architects. He also has been a partner in an architectural practice.

At Clemson, Barker co-founded the S.C. Design Arts Partnership to support community design outreach projects, initiated the Charleston Architecture Center, established the university's "Arts in April" program, and developed a Mayors' Institute to help city leaders learn how to manage issues related to growth and development.

Despite his new responsibilities as president, Barker remains committed to the classroom. As dean, he taught at least one class per year. Last spring, he was part of a team teaching an undergraduate course exploring "a sense of place" in architecture, literature, and history.

"I think it's important that a president never lose touch with the classroom," he said.

The Barkers — Jim and Marcia — have two sons: 16-year-old Britt, a sophomore at Daniel High School, and Jacob, 26, who graduated from the University of North Carolina, attending on a baseball scholarship, and is now enrolled in graduate school at Clemson and working in the sports information office.

President Barker (first row, second from right) was a member of the Clemson Track & Field team as a pole vaulter.

Head Coach Tommy Bowden

When Tommy Bowden approached the 1999 season, he had one simple goal for his first Clemson team - Improvement. Bowden warned Clemson supporters that the Tigers were unlikely to be bowl participants in 1999, but his main focus was to improve. Bowden's goal of improvement was reached and he was happy to be wrong about his preseason prediction, as the Tigers were invited to the 1999 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl.

Unfortunately, Clemson lost the bowl game 17-7 to Mississippi State, which finished the season ranked 12th in the nation, Clemson's fourth loss to a team ranked in the top 12 of the final AP poll. That loss did not tarnish the great accomplishments the Clemson football team achieved in its first season under Bowden.

In 1999, Bowden accomplished a personal milestone that no Clemson coach had attained since 1981, the year the Tigers won the National Championship. Bowden became the first Clemson coach since Danny Ford to be named ACC Coach of the Year.

Bowden led the Tigers to a 6-6 record and 5-3 mark in the ACC against the nation's third toughest regular season schedule according to Jeff Sagarin. The Tigers finished tied for second with Georgia Tech and Virginia in the final conference standings, a six-place improvement over the previous season, the greatest one season jump in ACC history in league play.

The Tigers also made a four-game ACC win improvement in 1999. It was just the fifth time in ACC history that a team made that big of a league victory jump. Bowden had taken over a team with a losing record and brought it to a bowl game in his first season, just the sixth coach in ACC history to accomplish that feat.

The Clemson program set or tied 38 school records in Bowden's first year, including 26 on offense. Ironically, Bowden's first Tulane team set or tied 26 offensive school records.

The improvements in the ACC standings were thanks in large part to an improved offensive attack. The Clemson offense ended the season averaging 402.6 yards per game, nearly a 100-yard per game improvement over 1998. The Tigers scored 26.8 points per game in 1999 compared to 19.8 in 1998. Clemson's 42 touchdowns in 1999 ranked fifth best in school history.

Bowden's first Clemson team averaged 67.1 more yards a game through the air than in 1998, as the Tigers passed for 3019 yards, an all-time Clemson record. Clemson quarterbacks made good on 59.6 percent of their pass attempts in 1999, third highest percentage in school history.

In 1998, Clemson ranked 103rd in the nation in turnover margin, but in 1999 the Tigers were 11th, an incredible 92-place improvement in the rankings. Clemson scored 100 points off turnovers, while opponents only scored 44 in the same statistical category.

Under Bowden, Clemson continued its strong defensive tradition. With 47 sacks, Clemson was first in the ACC in that category for the second straight season, and the final total established a Clemson record. Three players (Keith Adams - 15.5, Chad Carson - 12.0, Robert Carswell - 10.8) all had nearly 11 tackles per game in 1999 to rank among the top four tacklers in the league. Adams, a sophomore, finished the season with 186 tackles, highest in the nation, and broke the Clemson single season tackle record held by Anthony Simmons. They all contributed to the 17th best pass efficiency defense in the nation, a unit that had 19 interceptions, ninth highest in the country.

Thanks to the wide open offensive attack several Clemson players made their presence felt in the national rankings and the Clemson record book. Sophomore running back Travis Zachery had 16 touchdowns, to rank ninth in the country in scoring. He was injured in the first quarter of the Peach Bowl and did not get a chance to tie or break Lester Brown's single season Clemson record for touchdowns.

Junior wide receiver Rod Gardner set two Clemson single season records and became the school's first 1000-yard receiver. Gardner had 80 receptions for 1084 yards, Clemson single season records in both areas. He was 17th in the nation in receptions per game with a 6.6 mark. His yards per game average of 91.7 was 23rd best in the nation.

For the first time in Clemson history two Tiger quarterbacks threw for over 1000 yards in a season. Woodrow Dantzler passed for 1506 yards, while Brandon Streeter passed for 1466 yards during the regular season. The two diametrically opposite quarterbacks had total offense games over 350 yards, a testimony to Bowden's offensive system.

On the defensive side of the ball, Adams, a first-team All-American by Football News and the ACC Defensive Player of the Year, set the league tackle for loss record in 1999. Adams recorded 33 tackles for loss, six better than the previous mark during the regular season (Adams finished the season with 35 tackles for loss, but the ACC does not count bowl stats). He broke the school record for tackles in a game at South Carolina with 27.

Junior free safety Robert Carswell tied for first in the ACC and was 10th in the nation in interceptions with six. Senior cornerback Dextra Polite set an all-time Clemson record with 17 passes broken up.

Four of Clemson's five losses in 1999 came by four points or less and three of the five losses came against the only undefeated teams in the nation during the regular season (Marshall, Virginia Tech and Florida State).

Bowden Bowl I, the first ever meeting between father and son head coaches in college football history, took place on October 23, 1999. Bowden faced his father Bobby's top ranked Florida State team in Death Valley in front of a national television audience. The Tigers lost a tough battle to the eventual National Champions, 17-14, the closest margin of victory for the Seminoles and the fewest point they recorded all season by two touchdowns.

Making strong improvement in his first year with a program is nothing new for Bowden. In the two seasons he was the head coach at Tulane, Bowden took a team that had been 4-18 in the two years previous to his arrival, and emotionally and numerically reversed the team's fortunes with an 18-4 record, posted an 11-1 conference mark and finished the 1998 season ranked seventh in the nation by both polls. Tulane and Tennessee were the only undefeated teams in college football in 1998.

The Bowden Family: Tommy, Linda, Lauren and Ryan.

His Tulane team had a 22-game average of 39.7 points, 5.1 touchdowns, 463 yards of total offense, 270.5 yards passing, and 192.6 yards rushing. The Green Wave averaged 6.34 yards per play, and converted on third down 47 percent of the time.

Some say the most telling statistic in terms of wins and losses and the most telling statistic when it comes to coaching ability is turnover margin. The Green Wave ranked fifth in the nation in turnover margin each of his seasons at Tulane.

It didn't take Bowden long to put Tulane back on the college football landscape. In his first year, Tulane was picked last in the preseason polls of Conference USA. But, he led the New Orleans based school to a 7-4 record, a second-place conference standing with just one league loss, and set 33 school records in the process, including 26 on offense.

Tulane's accomplishments on offense were noteworthy in 1997, but their offensive charts reached uncharted areas in 1998. Tulane stood as the only school in the nation that averaged over 300 yards per game passing and 200 yards per game rushing. The team ranked fourth in the nation in total offense (507.1 per game) and second in scoring (45.4 points per game).

The Green Wave scored 40 or more points in eight contests in 1998, including each of the last seven games. In one game the Green Wave scored 72 points and rolled up 704 yards of total offense. They converted 52 percent of their third-down opportunities for the season and had just 11 turnovers in over 800 plays.

The 1998 season saw the program post a perfect 11-0 regular season under Bowden, its first perfect regular season since 1931. The Green Wave won Conference USA, its first league title since Tulane won the SEC in 1949. Bowden was named Conference USA Coach of the Year.

Bowden's team ranked seventh in the final AP poll and was a mainstay in the polls from the third week of the season on. Tulane had not been ranked at any time since 1979 and had not been ranked in a final poll since 1973. After Bowden accepted the job at Clemson, Tulane defeated BYU in the Liberty Bowl, 41-27.

Bowden's 11-0 record at the time was the 17th perfect regular season in college football in the decade of the 1990s.

A look to that list reveals two other coaches named Bowden. His father, Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden, had a perfect regular season in 1996 and 1999, while his brother, Terry, posted a perfect regular season in 1993. Obviously, the Bowdens are the first family of college coaching and this "Wonder Years" environment had a lot to do with Tommy Bowden's decision to enter the coaching world.

The fatherly influence of a college coach who reached 300 career wins against his son in 1999, also had an influence on other members of the family. Terry has been a head coach at Samford and Auburn, posting a 47-17-1 record at the latter. Terry serves as an in-studio commentator for ABC's college football package. Jeff Bowden is in his sixth year as wide receivers coach at Florida State.

Tommy Bowden began his college football experience as a walk-on wide receiver at West Virginia. He played for his father between 1973-74-75 and then for Frank Signetti during the 1976 season.

As a junior he caught 15 passes for 189 yards and one score. Bowden remained at West Virginia for the 1977 season and began his coaching career, serving as a graduate assistant on Signetti's staff. His interest in coaching only became more intense after that first year as a GA. His father then hired him as a secondary coach at Florida State for the 1978 season.

That experience confirmed to Bowden that he was in a profession that would be his life's work. The Seminoles posted a 19-4 mark in his two seasons at Florida State.

In 1980, Bowden joined the staff at East Carolina, where he coached for the Spring practice session of 1980. That spring, he moved to Auburn and served as the Tigers running backs coach for the 1980 season. Among the players he coached was James Brooks, who went on to a 13-year NFL career and is still second in Auburn history in rushing.

In 1981, Bowden returned to Tallahassee as the tight ends coach. In three more years at Florida State, the Seminoles posted a 23-12 mark and played in a pair of bowl games. The 1982 team ranked 13th in the final poll, claimed a 9-3 record and a Gator Bowl championship.

In Tommy's five years as an assistant coach under Bobby Bowden at Florida State the Seminoles were 42-16. In 1984, Bowden accepted his first job as a coordinator. He served under Steve Sloan at Duke as the Blue Devils quarterbacks coach and offensive coordinator. It was as the Duke offensive coordinator that Bowden made his first trip to Death Valley as a coach. Among the players Bowden tutored was Anthony Dilweg, who went on to an NFL career.

After three years at Duke, Bowden became the wide receivers coach at Alabama under Bill Curry. It was at Alabama that Bowden refined his offensive coaching prowess under noted offensive mind Homer Smith, then the Alabama Offensive Coordinator.

In 1990, Bowden returned to a coordinator position, serving Kentucky as its offensive coordinator and wide receivers coach. That season he helped the Wildcats to their first upper division SEC finish since 1984.

In 1991, Bowden joined Pat Dye at Auburn. He would remain with the SEC Tigers for six years, his longest stint as a college assistant coach. During his tenure, Auburn was a combined 46-20-2, including a perfect 11-0 season in 1993. Auburn had four Associated Press top 25 seasons, including a number-four final ranking in 1993 and a number-nine final rating in 1994. The Tigers were 20-1-1 in 1993-94 combined.

Bowden worked under his brother Terry Bowden for his last four years at Auburn and the Tigers had a 36-9-1 record with both Bowdens on the staff.

Born on July 10, 1954, in Birmingham, AL, Bowden is married to the former Linda Joan White, who he first met when the two were in school together at Morgantown High in West Virginia. The couple has two children, Ryan (18), a freshman at Clemson, and Lauren (15), a student at Daniel High.

Death Valley

Clemson Memorial Stadium has been held in high esteem for many years. Whether it be players from the 1940s and 1950s, opposing players from the 1970s and 1980s, or even professional players in the 1990s, the ambiance of this special setting is what college football is all about.

The storied edifice added to its legend when the first meeting of father and son head coaches (Bowden Bowl I) took place before a sellout crowd of more than 86,000 fans.

In the 1970s, 1980s and 1990s, various publications named top 10 stadiums in college football and Clemson Memorial Stadium, affectionately known as "Death Valley," has been a common denominator on those lists.

The facility's mystique is derived from its many traditions, which date to its opening in 1942, the legendary games and players, and Clemson's corresponding rate of success. Clemson has won 202 games in the previous 58 years there (202-80-7) and has won over 70 percent of the contests. Thirty times since 1983, crowds have exceeded 80,000.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers who call it home, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before head coach Jess Neely left for Rice University after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need".

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing—there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow. This year Clemson celebrates its 59th year in this outstanding facility.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the stadium, including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete poured.

Howard said that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he said. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through.

"I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week's pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have

Clemson has had 30 crowds over 80,000 in Death Valley, including the record of 86,092 for Bowden Bowl I in 1999.

50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard said that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 pm and we played at 2:00 pm." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone, "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to over 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

Running Down The Hill

"Mark Richt (assistant coach) was talking to Jeff Bowden (assistant coach) telling him what to call. Jeff was screaming at a player not five yards away and that guy couldn't hear him.

"When we went out to warm up it felt like a National Championship game. When I went back to the team (in the locker room) before the game, I said this is going to be great practice for playing at Florida because this is as loud as it gets."

Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden

"Death Valley really lives up to its image. I was impressed with this stadium. When you put 80,000 people in there, it really feels like they are on top of you. I would hate to be Georgia Tech or whoever else comes in here."

San Francisco 49ers Quarterback Steve Young

"Clemson's record at home is not a coincidence. Running down the hill is a part of that record. You get so inspired, and so much of college football is about emotion. You get out of that bus and you hear the roar of the crowd and it gives you chills up and down your spine."

Former Clemson All-America kicker David Treadwell

"The rock has strange powers. When you rub it, and run down the hill, the adrenaline flows. Its the most emotional experience I've ever had."

Six-time All-Pro and former Clemson All-American Michael Dean Perry

"Running down the hill is still talked about everywhere I go. Players who played against Clemson when I was in college remember us running the hill and thinking we would gain some type of spirit. The adrenalin rush was unbelievable for a Clemson player and quite a shock for the opponent."

Former Clemson All-American Jerry Butler

"Last spring (1999), New York Knicks Head Coach Jeff Van Gundy came to Clemson for a coaching clinic. One of the first things he said was, 'before I leave I've got to rub Howard's Rock.' So, we brought him to the rock about midnight one night. He rubbed the rock, but he wouldn't run down the hill. He was a little afraid of that."

Clemson Head Basketball Coach Larry Shyatt

"It has always been a dream to run down that hill. You get to the top and it's emotional because you think of all the players that have done the exact same thing that you are doing. When you get to the bottom you look up and see 80,000 people hollering and you realize you have a tradition to live up to."

Clemson Traditions

FIRST FRIDAY PARADE

The Clemson football season kicks off each year with the annual First Friday Parade. The once-a-year event takes place on the Friday afternoon prior to the first home football game. Floats from various fraternities and sororities and other campus organizations are represented in the parade that rolls down highway 93 in front of the President's house in Clemson. The parade culminates at the Amphitheater in the middle of campus where the first Pep Rally of the year takes place.

The Grand Marshal of the Parade is featured at the Pep Rally. Recent Grand Marshals have ranged from former PGA professional Dillard Pruitt, to College Football Hall of Fame legends Jess Neely and Frank Howard, to noted television announcers Brent Musburger and Ara Parseghian.

HOMECOMING

Clemson holds a classic homecoming every year. Displays by fraternities and sororities that are months in the making, are built on Bowman Field the week prior to Homecoming weekend. It is an event that draws alumni and friends of Clemson from all over the country.

The Friday evening prior to the game, Tigerama is held in Death Valley, which is an event that attracts over 35,000 fans. It is widely known as the largest pep rally in the world. The Homecoming Queen and her court are presented in addition to Homecoming skits, a pep rally, and a large and loud fireworks display.

The first homecoming game played at Clemson took place on September 30, 1922 when Clemson met Centre. Clemson has a 55-18-3 record on Homecoming games over the years, a 74 winning percentage, and has outscored the opposition 1,609-996 in those previous 76 games. The average margin of victory is 21 to 12. Clemson has been especially successful on Homecoming in recent years, posting a 25-2-2 record since 1970.

HOWARD'S ROCK

When the Clemson team gathers to run down "The Hill", the players first rub Howard's Rock because of the mystical powers it is supposed to give Clemson players. The rock is mounted on a pedestal at the top of the hill and was given to Coach Frank Howard by a friend (S.C. Jones '19) who picked it up in Death Valley, CA. The Rock was first placed on the pedestal at the top of the hill on September 24, 1966, for a game Clemson won 40-35 over Virginia. In that game, the Tigers rallied from 18 points down with 17 minutes to play. The team started rubbing the rock for the first game of 1967, a 23-6 win over Wake Forest on September 23, 1967.

THE TIGER PAW

The Tiger Paw logo has become synonymous with the University's athletic teams since its invention by John Antonio. Antonio was an innovative account executive with Henderson Advertising in Greenville, and prior to the 1970 season, unveiled the Paw as Clemson's new logo. It has shown up all over the country on items owned by Clemson fans from shirts to hats to the now famous "two-dollar bills". Many institutions with a feline as a mascot have used the logo, or an impression of it.

Antonio also came up with the phrase, "Fly the friendly skies of United," when he worked for the Leo Burnette Agency in Chicago. "I've never had a logo or an emblem copied as much as the Tiger Paw," said Antonio, now 69 and living in Greenville.

Antonio still remembers the day he made the presentation of the Tiger Paw to Frank Howard, then the Clemson Athletic Director. "He wasn't saying much at all," recalled Antonio in an article in the Greenville News by Alyce Atkinson on Feb. 16, 1997. "I kind of thought I was losing this fight." At this point Antonio pulled out an orange football helmet with a tiger paw painted on the side.

"Coach Howard's eyes got as big as saucers and he smiled. From there it was downhill. Coach Howard wanted that helmet." Those Tiger paws are still on the Clemson helmets today.

Men's Soccer

By Sam Blackman
Associate Sports Information Dir.

The 2000 edition of the Clemson men's soccer team will feature a blend of the old and the new. Clemson returns seven starters from last year's team and to compliment this nucleus is one of the top, if not the top, recruiting classes in the nation.

The Tigers finished last year with a 9-8-2 record overall and six of the losses were by one goal, including a last-second loss to second-ranked Santa Clara in October.

"Obviously, we are very disappointed that we did not go to the NCAA Tournament last season. We have the core of last year's team back and they are very hungry to go back to the NCAA Tournament.

"People like Mike Potempa, Pablo Webster, Ross Goodacre, Mark Lisi, and Nathan Rawlins were on the team that went to the Final Eight in 1998 and they are very determined to lead the team back to the playoffs and go far in the tournament. We had a great spring, the returnees know they will have to work hard because it is going to be very competitive and hard to earn a starting position. We had a great recruiting class and the depth and competition for the starting positions will help us be a better team."

The Tigers finished the season winning five of their last eight games and had a 4-1 win over third-ranked Wake Forest in the last week of the regular season. Clemson also features four of the five leading scorers from a year ago.

"Our goals are very simple, compete for the national championship and win the ACC. We are going to be great defensively, and I feel we will be solid in the midfield.

"On paper we had the best recruiting year we have ever had since I have been at Clemson."

GOALKEEPERS

Transfer Doug Warren, freshman Martin Hutton and junior Patrick Fullerton will come to preseason and battle for the starting goalkeeping position.

"Martin Hutton will be pushing for the starting position. He has great range and is good with the ball at his feet. He is a good shot stopper and is very courageous. He is not afraid to go in the crowd. He needs to develop physically, but he has a tremendous amount of potential. If he can remain healthy he will bring a lot of attributes to the program.

"Doug Warren is a member of the present U20 National Team and is a transfer from Indiana University. Doug is a complete goalkeeper with a tremendous work ethic and will strengthen our squad tremendously."

DEFENDERS

The defender positions will be very competitive. Clemson has Webster, Potempa, Andy Heck and Kevin Conaway, all seniors, returning from last season.

Mark Lisi returns after winning first-team All-ACC honors in 1998 and 1999.

Webster played in 19 games and started 12. He also had five assists in 1999. Potempa, started 18 matches last year and finished the year with one goal and two assists. He is the captain of the 2000 squad and was a second-team All-ACC selection and earned third-team All-South honors last year.

"This area is very competitive. Mike Potempa is a solid leader and worked in the spring to improve his distribution out of the back.

"He dominates in the air. His work ethic and desire make him a great leader. He will anchor the center of the defense. Webster played well last year and has stepped up his game. Kevin Conaway played in 11 games last season and picked up five starts. Conaway can play in the center or the left back position. He had a good spring playing in the back and that could be an option. Andy Heck played in the back in the spring and could see time as a defender this season, especially on the right side.

"Nathan Rawlins started 23 games in 1998, but missed last year due to a knee injury. He has great speed and stamina and is 'Mr. Consistent' when on the field."

Oguchi Onyewu is a newcomer in the back. He was a member of the United States U17 and U20 National Team.

"Oguchi is 6-3 and is unbelievable in the air. He is a great athlete and will add an intimidating presence on the back line."

Eric Lewis is a member of the Under 20

National Team and is a versatile athlete. He could see action on the right side. Other newcomers who may see action in the back include Chase Hilgenbrinck and Nick Rivera.

"Chase is a naturally left-sided player and can play in the back or in the midfield. Nick Rivera is 'Mr. Utility.' He is effective wherever you play him. He also has a knack for scoring goals.

"The defenders will be in a big battle. We will have a lot of depth as we have eight or nine players vying for the four starting positions. We will be a strong, defensive team, and I think it will be better defensive team compared to the 1998 squad."

MIDFIELDERS

Lisi and Heck are seniors and Goodacre is a junior. All are starters who return for the Tigers this fall. Lisi was Clemson's third leading scorer with five goal and six assists for 16 points. He also started 18 games for the Tigers last year. Lisi was named first-team All-ACC and second-team All-South in 1999. Goodacre was the Tigers' fourth leading scorer, as he had four goals and seven assists for 15 points. He started all 19 matches for the Tigers last season.

Sophomore Fabio Tambosi proved to be a valuable player off the bench as he scored four goals and had four assists for 12 points.

The newcomers include Rivera, Oskar Bringsved, Kenny Cutler and Paul Souders.

"Mark Lisi will play in the attacking/link role. He has the ability to slice open a game with his passing. More production in the scoring department will be asked from Goodacre and Tambosi.

"Oskar Bringsved is a dynamite player with a lot of energy. He has good vision and is a midfield general. Kenny Cutler will play a defensive role in the center of the midfield. Both players are blue-collar players. Eric Lewis and Paul Souders could play anywhere in the midfield. Even Mike Potempa could play in the midfield. The midfield will be a strong position with lots of experience."

FORWARDS

Junior Ian Fuller had a great season as he led the Tigers in scoring with seven goals and seven assists for 21 points. He started 18 matches for the Tigers in 1999 and finished the season with three winning goals.

"Ian Fuller has showed some promise. He is a terrific player with his back to the goal and he did a great job putting away the chances he had last year. Goodacre and Rawlins could play up front as well. The newcomers at this position include Andre Borges and Steven Rhyne.

"Both Borges and Rhyne are both good goal scorers and should help us this fall. Fuller came on nicely for us last year. Finding the right combination and the players feeling comfortable with each other will be the key for us."

BCS & Bowl Schedule

Starting in 1998, the Bowl Championship Series (BCS) determined the Division I-A National Champion in football. In the BCS's first season, Tennessee defeated Florida State, 23-16, in the Fiesta Bowl to claim the national title. Last year, it was Florida State's turn as the Seminoles topped Virginia Tech 46-29 in the Sugar Bowl for their second national title in seven years.

The BCS Series consists of the Rose Bowl, Sugar Bowl, Orange Bowl and the Fiesta Bowl. Conferences with automatic berths include the Atlantic Coast, Big East, Big Ten, Big 12, Pac-10 and the Southeastern Conferences.

This past January, BCS members voted to extend the BCS agreement with ABC through the 2005 regular season and 2006 bowl season allowing each of the four bowls to host two national championship games.

The BCS also notes the importance of regional consideration regarding team selection. Specifically, as a member of the BCS, the Rose Bowl will host the Big Ten and Pac-10 champions in those years in which either the Rose Bowl does not have the national championship game or the Big Ten and Pac-10 champion is not ranked No. 1 or No. 2. Other "regional consideration" tie-ins include the SEC champion in the Sugar Bowl, the ACC or Big East champion in the Orange Bowl and the Big 12 champion in the Fiesta Bowl.

Any Division I-A independent team or the champion of any Division I-A conference which is ranked sixth or higher in the BCS standings, will also be eligible for the Bowl Championship Series. A year ago, more than 1.2 million fans attended college football's 23 bowl games. This season, there will be 25 post-season bowl games, from the 87th Annual Rose Bowl, to the first-year galleryfurniture.com Bowl in Houston, Texas and the Silicon Valley Bowl in San Jose, Calif.

Strength Training

Clemson fans look forward to seeing tough, hard-nosed football when they come to Death Valley or travel to other schools to watch their Tigers in action. But some of the Tigers' most intense competition and action doesn't take place on autumn Saturday's and it doesn't take place on a field. Take a peek into the Clemson Strength Training Room at almost any time of day, almost any day of the week, at any time of the year, and you will see the Tigers building the foundation for their pursuit of a championship.

Perhaps the most impressive characteristic of the facility is its size. Several years ago, it was enlarged to an astounding 11,000 square feet, making it one of the largest in the nation. In 1998, it was expanded to 14,000 square feet. The facility boasts two full lines of Nautilus machines and over 12 tons of weights. The large number of machines and free weights allows the weight room to be used by athletes from several other sports at the same time, without anyone having to wait in line at a particular station.

Within the last two years the dumbbell area and leg development areas were expanded as well as the nutrition and hydration area known as the Power Station. The Power Station features the energy and recovery drink to aid each athlete's recovery from intense training.

The plush atmosphere provides an interesting contrast to the physical exertion that takes place in the facility.

When an athlete enters the etched glass doors, he is greeted by plush, wall-to-wall carpeting, walls lined with mirrors, ceiling fans, and music from a 26-speaker sound system - a worthy backdrop for well over $500,000 worth of state-of-the-art equipment.

Color television monitors are also positioned throughout the facility. These monitors are used for training and instruction, as Tiger strength coaches film the athletes and work with them on form correction.

The large staff of four full-time strength coaches, four graduate assistants, numerous student assistants, and volunteers ensures that each football player receives proper instruction on the fundamentals of strength and speed development. Training programs at Clemson are position specific and designed to meet the needs and demands of each athlete. Also, each position is appointed a full-time strength coach that serves as a personal trainer for that particular athlete throughout his career.

Hard core training and competition in the weight room and the annual Ironman Classic will help each athlete reach optimal levels in strength and speed development. The Tiger Strength Training and Nutrition Program help each athlete to become a complete player.

Vickery Hall

Vickery Hall

Since its inception in 1991, the five-faceted Student-Athlete Enrichment Program has provided its student-athletes a continued commitment to excellence. Our approach is to address the total student-athlete, and we are committed to coaching our student-athletes to success (C.A.T.S.) not only in the athletic arena but in the academic, personal growth, career, and service arenas as well. As an original member of the

C.A.T.S. Coaching Athletes To Success

NCAA Life Skills/CHAMPS Program, we provide opportunities and services to address the changing needs and skills of student-athletes in the years during college and after graduation.

Clemson University's commitment to provide its student-athletes with the very best of facilities is evident in many ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium, to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all 19 of Clemson's varsity sports have the very best in facilities for training and competition.

Vickery Hall is no exception, as the $3 million structure is as impressive aesthetically as any of the other facilities. But the importance of Vickery Hall to the Clemson University Athletics Department is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in the spring of 1991 and was the first support facility in the country built solely for the all-around education of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000 square-foot building is open throughout the day and into the evening to accommodate the extended schedules of student-athletes.

The mission of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is to monitor, guide, and encourage student-athletes to fulfill their long-term goals, and to achieve their academic and career potential.

Vickery Hall focuses on five primary areas to meet the student-athlete's needs.

ACADEMIC COMMITMENT

The academic commitment aspect of Clemson's Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has provided one of the best academic support and advising programs in the nation.

The proof is in the statistics. A record 227 Clemson student-athletes made the academic honor roll in the fall of 1999. The student-athletes had a record 2.76 GPA in the spring of 2000, just .02 from the overall student body GPA of 2.78. Records were also established for number of President's List and Dean's List students.

In the spring of 2000 the Clemson football team posted a team GPA of 2.49, highest on record. A record 21 players were named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll for 1999-2000.

The Academic Counselors perform a variety of duties to track academic progress. These duties include providing assistance in registration and priority scheduling, contacting faculty, personally checking classes, recording information, counseling sessions with student-athletes, providing diagnostic testing, and directing career aspirations.

One of the most prestigious programs that has received recognition essential to the growth of Vickery Hall is the tutorial program.

Of the 160 programs certified by CRLA, the Clemson Student-Athlete Enrichment Program was one of the first three student-athlete programs in the country to be granted a Level 1 certification from the College of Reading and Learning Association, International Tutor Certification Program. The program was also honored with the National Champs Life Skills Excellence Award in 1999, one of six schools from across the country to be honored.

Having tutor certification allows student-athletes to be provided the highest quality of academic assistance possible. Approximately 80 tutors are hired to provide academic support in the many subject areas offered.

Many post-graduate scholarships and internships are also available to student-athletes continuing their education through postgraduate studies. Our student-athletes are provided timely information regarding these opportunities and the resources necessary to assist in the application process for either scholarships or internships.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has recognized the need for students to have access to high-quality computing equipment and has made a commitment to provide the student-athletes at Clemson with one of the largest computer labs in the country. Located on the first floor of Vickery Hall is the Microcomputer Laboratory. The lab is open seven days a week, for 16 hours on Monday through Thursday, and a limited time on Saturday and Sunday. During exam periods the lab hours are extended.

The lab staff has a full-time computer manager, and also graduate students, many of whom are pursuing advanced degrees in computer science. Lab staff members are available for tutoring of any Computer Science course, as well as the many management, engineering, and business courses that deal with personal computers.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is committed to providing state-of-the-art computing facilities. New computers have recently been purchased bringing the lab to a state of the art facility. More than 50 computers are available for student-athletes.

All computers are fully connected to the internet allowing for access of computers throughout the world for research and communication.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT COMMITMENT

One of the most important programs that helps student-athletes reach their full potential and engage successfully in this college experience is the Personal Growth and Development Program.

One of the key components of this program is the first-semester freshman transition class designed to assist the student-athlete in making a successful transition into his/her university and athletic life. All first-semester freshmen attend a semester-long series of workshops targeting the transitional issues of time management, organizational strategies, health and wellness issues, athletic issues, diversity issues, career orientation, and service training. Throughout the academic year, all student-athletes are required to attend four large-group programs, which focus on pertinent social, health, and athletic issues.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT COMMITMENT

The Career Assistance Program provides student-athletes an opportunity to fulfill career aspirations by participating in various career seminars offered by the staff at Vickery Hall. The philosophy of this program is to provide student-athletes with job-searching skills and strategies, internships, practical experience, and summer employment. These programs are designed to address specific career opportunities and acquire information about the student-athletes for each year.

By using the resources available to the University, Alumni Center, and the Athletic Department, the staff is working to establish a network of businesses, companies, and executives who will help assist with the Summer Employment Assistance Program. The program's main goal is to provide the student-athletes with job experience and a work history, which he or she can apply to his or her academic discipline.

The Career Assistance Program is coordinated from the academic colleges, the Placement Center, and through the Athletic Department contacts. This program is designed to better prepare the student-athlete for full-time employment and focuses on resume writing and interview techniques.

SERVICE COMMITMENT

Providing community and outreach service to student-athletes and the surrounding community by engaging the student-athletes in hands-on interactive programs is an important aspect of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs. The staff of SAEP coordinates various activities each year to engage student-athletes in community outreach projects along with academic programs.

Another aspect of the service commitment is that of community service. The purpose of community service is to allow the student-athletes to become involved with the happenings of the community while giving back at the same time. Each year every team is required to perform at least two community outreach projects. Recently implemented was a new community service program entitled Success Away From the Game. The purpose of this program is to combine athletes of different sports in community outreach programs. By doing this, each outreach program participates, thus creating a diverse group of athletes with new and different ideas. At the end of each year, six student-athletes who have demonstrated outstanding commitment and contributions to the community are recognized as the Top Six by the ACC.

LIFELine, another aspect of community service, consists of chosen football players who work together in specific community outreach projects. LIFELine has approximately 20 members along with a president, vice president and secretary. Once a month, these young men meet to discuss future projects. To date, they have sponsored Hi-Five Day, planted a garden at Helping Hands Children Shelter, and held reading programs at elementary schools. These young men have vital roles in both the community and the athletic arena.

To assist our student-athletes in becoming effective service leaders and communicators we provide service and speaking training, which anticipates the demands placed on a student-athlete when he/she might be speaking with a group of young people or also speaking with the media.

ATHLETIC COMMITMENT

Under the direction of athletic director Bobby Robinson, Clemson is undoubtedly one of the elite programs of Division I athletics.

Five Clemson teams ranked in the final top 10 of their respective sports last season, including three spring sports. Last year marked the fifth straight year Clemson has had at least seven top 25 teams. Eleven of Clemson's 19 teams advanced to postseason play during the 1999-2000 academic year. Sixty Clemson student-athletes earned first-team All-ACC honors, the highest number since 1991-92. With a generous funding base from Clemson's booster organization, IPTAY, and the forward-thinking of our athletic administration, the Clemson Tigers will continue to be a dominating athletic force, not only in the ACC, but nationally as well.

Break From Tradition.

Traditionally, rich aesthetics, cost-effectiveness and color haven't gone hand in hand. If you wanted fashion color, you had to go to a specialty boutique and it wasn't going to be cheap. With Eastman's Chromspun® and Estron® yarns — you can have your cake and eat it too.

Chromspun solution dyed acetate yarn is available in a wide range of fashion colors and can also be produced in custom colors. It complements our popular Estron line of white yarns. Plus, we make all Eastman® yarns in the USA. As a matter of fact, Chromspun is the only colored acetate yarn made in America. That's a tradition we're proud of.

Before the South Carolina primary last February, the Republican Party's presidential race was wide open. After the primary, the nomination belonged to George W. Bush. Political science professor Dave Woodard wasn't surprised: The state has always picked the candidates who later won the party's nomination.

With so much at stake, the candidates focused heavily on South Carolina — and Clemson University found itself squarely in the middle and in the national spotlight. Students launched "Decision 2000" to bring candidates to campus and encourage student participation in elections. Faculty such as Woodard and colleagues in the College of Business and Public Affairs and the Strom Thurmond Institute helped media understand the key role of the Palmetto State. And Clemson's media relations and communications staff was on-call to arrange interviews, help stage live TV shows and handle numerous other requests from candidates, networks and reporters.

The result was that Clemson played host to the likes of Ted Koppel, Chris Matthews, George Stephanopolous and Tim Russert, while accommodating long-distance requests from Larry King, "ABC World News," NPR radio, USA Today, the New York Times and dozens of other national media. Live and taped programs from Clemson aired on C-Span, MSNBC and CNBC, bringing the University an unprecedented level of national publicity.

Clemson Volleyball

By Tim Bourret
Sports Information Director

Youth will be the watchword for the 2000 Clemson Lady Tiger volleyball team. Coach Jolene Jordan Hoover must replace four starters from Clemson's record setting 31-3 team that won the ACC regular season championship with a school best 15-1 mark, ranked ninth in the final NCAA RPI index and featured four players who were named first or second team All-ACC.

Certainly a stern test for Hoover, especially early in the season, will be to find a replacement for Cindy Stern, the ACC Player of the Year and second-team All-American. Stern was a five-time ACC player of the week selection from the middle hitter position, and a first-team All-ACC and All-ACC Tournament performer. She finished her career as the school's all-time leader in block assists and ranked second in kills with 1744. She will return to complete her studies this year and serve as a student-assistant coach.

Hoover must also replace first-team All-ACC outside hitter Alison Coday, Academic All-American Heidi Cooper and reliable outside hitters Emily Gorla and Skye Frost. The group of seniors led Clemson to the school's first ACC regular season title (1999), the first ACC Tournament Championship (1997), three straight NCAA Tournament appearances, and 96 victories.

Despite these significant losses, Hoover is optimistic Clemson can enhance its burgeoning volleyball tradition with another NCAA Tournament appearance. "We are going to be a young team this year, but we have a group of returning players who are used to winning," said Hoover, who is already Clemson's career leader in victories.

"On paper this is the best freshman class we have ever had. They are really ahead of where the 1999 seniors were when they were freshmen. The success of the 1999 senior class has allowed us to attract a higher caliber of players. We have two "Fab 50" selections in the same class for the first time, in Ryane Beasley and Lindsey Fuller. That gives our program three "Fab 50" selections in the last two years, because Jessi Betcher received that honor in 1998."

The cupboard is certainly not bare when it comes to returning players either. There are eight returning letterwinners, two players who started all of last year, plus three more with some degree of starting experience in 1998 or 1999. The group is led by each the last two ACC Rookie of the Year selections, Jodi Steffes and Betcher.

"Our strength will be on the right side with Jodi Steffes and Jessi Betcher," continued Hoover. "I feel good about our offense with Jessi returning because she plays such an important role for our team. She is an outstanding leader of our offense."

"We did lose some excellent passers in Cooper, Stern and Gorla, so ball control and passing will be a focal point of our early practices. Jodi Steffes is an outstanding passer and defensive player. It will be a competitive environment and interesting to see who will step up and be a significant contributor in this area."

Six other returning lettermen will compete for the open positions in 2000. Mallory Benson and Jackie Dalleska played in 182 combined games at the middle hitter position. Senior Melissa Kudelka, juniors Tami BySura and Meredith Kirtland, and sophomore Anne Berki will also be significant contributors for the Lady Tigers, as they seek a sixth NCAA Tournament bid in an eight-year period.

Steffes will be the leader of the right-side hitters and perhaps the entire team. The junior from Elwood, IL was a second-team All-ACC performer last year, and a first-team All-ACC Tournament selection. The co-captain for 2000 was also named to the AVCA All-District III team for the second straight year.

Jessi Betcher was the 1999 ACC Rookie of the Year.

"Jodi is our stabilizer, she is the glue that keeps everything together. She has been our second or third option offensively in the past, but this year she will have to step up to the challenge and be our leading offensive weapon. She can handle that role. I have the utmost confidence in Jodi because she has tremendous composure and great court demeanor."

Kirtland and Kiki Dallao could also see action at right-side hitter and outside hitter this year. Kirtland is a junior from Miami, FL who is a veteran of 22 games in her career. "Meredith has been working hard in the weight room in the offseason and hopefully she can transfer her gains over to the court. Dallao is a strong athlete from Texas, who could help us at two positions."

Beasley and Laura Jensen, both freshmen, figure to see a lot of action at the outside hitter position. Beasley is a "Fab 50" selection and an all-state player from the strong volleyball state of Illinois. "We are looking for Ryane to take Alison Coday's spot in the lineup and I know she is capable of handling that position. She also played middle hitter for her club team this past spring and could see action there, depending on our middle situation."

Jensen, from Albany, CA, was named the MVP of her high school league as a senior and an all-conference selection as a junior and senior. Her Albany High School team won the league championship every year she was on the team. "Laura is an excellent defensive and ball control player. We will work her at the outside hitter position, and she could also play a defensive specialist role. She is an enthusiastic athlete that you want on the court."

Betcher returns to lead Clemson's roster of setters. The sophomore from Boulder, CO was probably the most highly recruited player in history to sign with Clemson and she lived up to that billing in 1999. The ACC Rookie of the year, she also made second-team all-conference and was chosen to the AVCA All-District III team. The Freshman of the Year in District III ranked first in the nation in assists per game most of the year, and led the ACC in that category with 14.17 per game. She also ranked fourth in the league in digs per game and service aces per game.

"Jessi is one of our co-captains as a sophomore, an honor voted on by our team, and that should say something about her leadership, her work ethic and enthusiasm. She will be a key to how well the freshmen make the transition to the collegiate game."

Kudelka, a returning letterwinner, and freshman Lindsey Abbott will complete the depth chart at the setter position. Kudelka is a senior from Temperance, MI who played in 19 matches a year ago. She was a starter in all 33 of Clemson's matches in 1998, recording 1469 assists, third best total in Clemson history. "Missy gives us outstanding depth at the setter position. She was a starter on a 26-win team in 1998 and continues to be an outstanding player for us."

Abbott was a first-team all-state selection in Florida in 1999. She led Choctawhatchee High to a 25-7 record in 1999, and is the school's all-time assist leader. "Lindsey was one of the top athletes in Florida last year. She played with a smaller program and did not receive a lot of exposure, but she is a terrific athlete with a positive attitude."

Abbott could also see some time at the defensive specialist position.

BySura is the only returning letterman at the defensive specialist position. The junior from Chagrin Falls, OH played in 13 games last year and in 31 games in 1998. "Tami is a candidate to take over the position held by Heidi Cooper. She is a player who trains hard and her experience in the program gives her the edge on filling that role on the 2000 Clemson team."

Five players, three returning lettermen and two rookies, will battle for the middle hitter position. Dalleska and Benson are two experience players who figure to see a lot of action, while Berki is a third returning letterman on the middle hitter depth chart. The rookies are led by Marija Zoric and Lindsey Fuller.

Dalleska had a .254 hitting percentage in 79 games last year. "Jackie is one of our co-captains and one of our two seniors. She continues to develop on the court and in terms of leadership and does a wonderful job of mentoring our young student-athletes. We hope she can step into the middle hitter position this year."

Benson was fifth in the ACC in hitting percentage (.326) in a limited role last year, and she ranked second on the Clemson team in attack percentage and blocks. "Benson is coming off an ACL injury, but her rehabilitation has gone well. She did a great job as a freshman in a limited role and we look for that to expand this year." Berki played in 11 games last year after red-shirting the 1998 season. "We are looking for her to contribute this season on the court and in developing more strength in the weight room. She did a great job this past spring."

Zoric and Fuller are a pair of newcomers to the Clemson program. The former is a native of Yugoslavia and was a member of that country's junior national team. Fuller was a "Fab 50" selection last year and comes from an outstanding club team in Nebraska.

"Lindsey needs to develop strength in the weight room when she arrives in August, but she has all the tools to become an outstanding player. Marija has international experience, which will be much needed due to our team's youth. She is a very mature individual who hopefully will make an easy transition to life in this country."

1999-00 Sports Year in Review

June 3, 2000 will be remembered as a remarkable day in Clemson sports history for some time to come. That day saw Clemson clinch three national top 10 finishes in three different sports.

In the afternoon, Larry Penley's golf team finished seventh at the NCAA Tournament with a 19-under-par total, its second best score versus par in 20 appearances in the event. It marked the fourth straight year that Clemson has finished in the top 10 at the NCAA Tournament, the first Clemson sports program to do that since the 1980-83 era when both the men's and women's cross country programs had four straight top 10s.

Later that night, Clemson's baseball team won the Clemson Super Regional with a 9-4 triumph over Mississippi State. That gave the Tigers their ninth berth in the College World Series, assuring Jack Leggett's team of a top eight national finish. The victory over Mississippi State also gave Clemson 50 victories for the 2000 season.

Finally, late Saturday night, or early Sunday morning, the final team results were released at the NCAA Men's track and field meet at Durham, NC. Bob Pollock's team ranked 10th in the final scoring at the meet. Shawn Crawford won the 200 meters and finished sixth in the 100 meters to lead the way for Clemson.

Clemson and Stanford were the only schools in the nation to have three top 10 men's spring sports programs.

Clemson finished the year with five different teams ranked in the top 10 in the nation, the most top 10s in one academic year for the Tiger program in nine years. A sixth sport, women's volleyball, was 22nd in its final coaches poll, but ninth in the final RPI index.

Earlier in the year, the women's soccer team was ranked sixth in the final poll, while the men's indoor track team finished 10th at its national meet in Indianapolis. That gave Clemson five top 10 teams for the academic year, most since the 1990-91 academic year when Clemson also had five.

Overall, this year's top 10 team total ties for third highest in an academic year in Clemson history. The record is eight, set in 1982-83, while the 1981-82 Clemson athletic teams had six. Clemson also had five top 10 finishes in 1980-81 and 1988-89, in addition to 1990-91 and this year.

Clemson showed success against top flight competition. Nine different programs recorded wins over top 25 teams, including a department best 14 by the Tiger baseball team.

The Clemson program had 10 All-Americans and three Academic All-Americans in 1999-00. Shawn Crawford was Clemson's most decorated All-American as he was an NCAA Champion at the indoor and outdoor track meets. He was the 200 meter champion at each meet and became the first Clemson athlete to be a NCAA Champion in the same event indoors and outdoors in the same year. Crawford concluded his career as Clemson's all-time leader in All-America certificates with 11.

The Clemson program also boasted 60 first-team All-ACC selections, the highest total for one academic year since 1991-92.

Eleven Clemson programs were selected for team bids to NCAA Tournaments. Clemson won three ACC Championships and a fourth sport (volleyball) won the conference regular season with a 15-1 record.

It was also a record setting year for Clemson coaches. Bob Pollock led the way with a pair of top 10 finishes, just the second time in history that the Clemson program has had two top 10s in the same academic year. The other time was 1992-93. Pollock now has eight ACC Outdoor team titles and nine indoor championships, in addition to a combined nine top 10 finishes. He was named ACC Coach of the Year both indoors and outdoors and now has a Clemson record 17 ACC Coach of the Year awards.

Clemson football Coach Tommy Bowden was also named ACC Coach of the Year, the first Tiger grid coach to win that award since 1981. Jack Leggett led the Clemson baseball team to the College World Series for the third time in his seven years at the helm and now has over 700 victories as a college coach. He led Clemson to 14 wins over top 25 teams in 2000.

Head Coach Larry Penley took the Clemson golf program to the NAAs for the 19th straight year, the 17th straight year under Penley. That is the second longest streak by a college golf coach in the nation. He also led the Tigers to their third ACC championship in the last four years and the fourth regional title since 1993.

Jim Davis brought Clemson's Lady Tigers to the NCAA Tournament for the 12th time in the last 13 years, while Tracey Leone continued her perfect streak of taking Clemson's women's soccer program to the NAAs and a top 20 finish for the sixth straight year. Jolene Hoover's women's volleyball team set a record for winning percentage in a season and that club's .912 percentage was best among the Clemson programs that have dual matches/games in the 1990s.

It was another banner year for former Clemson athletes at the professional level. Former Tiger football players Tony Horne and Dexter McCleon won Super Bowl Championship rings with the St. Louis Rams. They were two of 21 former Tigers in the NFL last year. That list also included Pro Bowl players Brian Dawkins and Trevor Pryce.

Dale Davis helped the Indiana Pacers to the NBA Championship finals. The 1999 Clemson Ring of Honor inductee was one of a record seven former Tigers who played in the NBA in 2000. There were seven former Clemson baseball players in the Major Leagues, including rising pitching stars Kris Benson and Billy Koch. Two former Tiger golfers played in the US Open for the first time, Charles Warren and Kevin Johnson.

Clemson again had an outstanding year in head to head competition with rival South Carolina. Clemson had an 8-4 overall record against the Gamecocks, including a perfect 8-0 mark through the fall and winter sports. The 8-4 record does not include a 6-1 record posted by the Clemson golf team in common tournaments against South Carolina.

Many of the success stories at Clemson in 1999-00 were recorded by young teams. The Clemson football team reached a bowl game by starting 17 underclassmen. Four first or second-team All-ACC players return for 2000. The Tigers baseball team started just two seniors in its starting nine, while the Clemson basketball team will return four starters next year. Clemson's golf team, ranked third in the final MasterCard poll, will return four of its five starters next year.

Academic Notes

- Jonathan Byrd concluded his career as perhaps the top all-around student-athlete in Clemson history. One fact makes him stand alone. He became the first athlete in Shawn Crawford won National Championships indoors and outdoors at the NCAA Championships in 2000.

In 1999-00 Byrd, a senior marketing major with a 3.6 career grade point, concluded his career as a third-team All-American on the course. He finished his career as Clemson's all-time leader in rounds under par and tied the school record for rounds in the 60s. He became Clemson's first four-time All-ACC selection. At the conclusion of the year he was named a first-team Academic All-American for the second straight year.

The spring semester saw more records broken in the classroom for the Clemson program. Every athletic team had at least a 2.45 GPA, the first time that has happened, and the overall GPA for the student-athletes was 2.76, highest on record.

A record six Clemson athletic teams posted a team GPA of over 3.0 in the spring semester of 2000. For the third straight semester the overall GPA for the student-athletes was at an all-time high, reaching 2.76. That is just .02 below the average for the overall student body, the closest differential on record.

Three Clemson teams posted all-time high team GPAs for a semester. That list included the Clemson football team, which had a 2.49 team GPA, far ahead of the previous high of 2.38. Tommy Bowden has been the head coach at Clemson for three semesters and his team has broken the previous semester GPA record twice. An all-time record 39 Clemson football players were on the academic honor roll, including seven members of the freshman signee class of 1999.

Trevor Adair's soccer program had a 3.12 team GPA for the semester, far ahead of the previous best of 3.01. Suzie Lueck's rowing team had a 3.27 GPA for the semester, the highest in its four semester old program and the second highest by any Clemson program in the spring.

Ninety-two student-athletes were named to the Dean's List, 20 more than any other semester in Clemson history. A total of 217 student-athletes were on the academic honor roll, second highest figure in history. Almost 46 percent of Clemson's student-athletes are on the academic honor roll. A total of 24 student-athletes had a perfect 4.0, second highest semester figure in Clemson history.

The list of President's List student-athletes includes first-team Academic All-American Kyle Young, the starting center on the Tiger football team, and second-team Academic All-American Chad Carson, the second leading tackler on the 1999 Tigers. Women's swimming All-American Virginia Kirouac also was on the President's List.

History of IPTAY

By Sam Blackman
Associate Sports Information Dir.

The impact Dr. Rupert H. Fike made at Clemson will always be felt as long as there is a Clemson.

While he touched thousands of lives, he saved many more, first as a radiologist and physician, and second as an educator. Not an educator as we view one today, but as one who would provide a foundation where worthy athletes would have money available where they could continue their education at Clemson.

Dr. Fike is credited with being the originator of Clemson's world-renowned IPTAY organization, which now provides scholarships in 19 men's and women's sports. IPTAY is the lifeblood of the Clemson Athletic Department. It also provides funds for capital improvements. The seed that Dr. Fike needed for his now much-envied group was planted there by then Head Football Coach Jess Neely.

On October 16, 1931, Clemson suffered a surprising 6-0 loss against The Citadel in a game played in Florence, SC. After the game, Captain Frank J. Jervey, Head Coach Jess Neely, assistant coach Joe Davis and Captain Pete Heffner of the university military staff met in a car outside the stadium to discuss ways Clemson could help its football program get back on track. The meeting started the ball rolling towards the establishment of the IPTAY Foundation. Clemson would score just three touchdowns and win just one game during the 1931 season.

Soon Fike came into the picture through correspondence with Jervey. Jervey wanted to form the "50 ($50) Club" but Fike wanted a smaller amount, which he thought, would mean more members and more money.

A letter written by Dr. Fike to Neely, dated August 21, 1934, seems to pretty well pinpoint the exact date of IPTAY's formation. The opening sentence: "Last night we had a little meeting out at my house and organized the IPTAY Club," Fike wrote. The purpose (of IPTAY) shall be to provide financial support to the athletic department at Clemson and to assist in every other way possible to regain for Clemson the high athletic standing which rightfully belongs to her."

Dr. Rupert Fike

He went on to say that those attending the meeting were George Suggs, Gene Cox, E.L. Hutchins, Bill Dukes, J.R. Pennell, George Klugh, Milton Berry, Jack Mitchell and himself.

The organization was first established as a secret organization and initial membership dues were set at $10.00 a year. (I Pay Ten A Year) Many had suggested that $50.00 be the minimum donation, but Fike's foresight thought it would be best to get as many Clemson supporters involved as possible, so he established the $10.00 minimum.

The excitement about the organization carried over into the 1934 season and the Tigers ran to their first winning season since 1930. Clemson had gone 0-5-1 against Furman and South Carolina in those years, then defeated both teams in 1934.

From that time until his death in 1956, Dr. Fike gave of himself freely to both Clemson and IPTAY, but mainly IPTAY. He served as its first president in a term that ran 20 years. He not only raised money, but he also recruited football players in the pre-grant-in-aid days.

That first year of IPTAY, Fike, Neely and his staff convinced 160 people to pay $10.00 a year to Clemson, for a grand total of $1,600 the first year (not bad during the middle of the great depression).

Just like today, IPTAY is built on teamwork and Hoke Sloan was one of the early workers for the cause of IPTAY. Hoke Sloan, a local merchant and Head Tennis Coach, was a great fund-raiser for IPTAY. He and Red Ritchie (faculty member and later president of the Atlantic Coast Conference) would travel the backroads of South Carolina to search out every possible Clemson fan for contributions. He signed up nearly everyone he got to talk to, as few could refuse his salesmanship and charm when he spoke of athletics at Clemson University and the school's great heritage and traditions.

The early founders of IPTAY would be astonished if they knew that IPTAY has reached the $10 Million dollar point. The club has definitely kept up with the inflation mark.

Neely was head coach at Clemson from 1931 through 1939 and spent the next 26 years at Rice University in Houston.

Neely coached Clemson to its first bowl game, the 1940 Cotton Bowl, where the Tigers capped a 9-1-0 season by beating Boston College 6-3. Clemson ended the season ranked 12th in the final Associated Press poll, its first top 20 season in history. Boston College was ranked 11th going into the game and it was Clemson's first win over a top 20 team in its history. The team featured the play of Banks McFadden Clemson's first Associated Press All-American. Clemson had a 43-35-7 record during Neely's tenure.

Thousands of athletes have benefited through the IPTAY Scholarship fund since its inception in 1934. But the success of the football team in 1939 was probably the first evidence of how extra money for scholarships would help the program.

"I never worked with a person more professional, and one more energetic in wanting to help Clemson than Dr. Fike was," Neely once told George Bennett, who is now executive secretary to IPTAY.

"The Tigers had just been beaten by The Citadel in Florence, SC," Bennett recalls Neely telling him. "And that's when Coach Neely said 'something had to be done' and he proposed the idea to Dr. Fike and that's when the motor started running (in Fike's mind)."

History of IPTAY

Neely thought if $10,000 could be raised, the Tigers could have a pretty good program.

"His (Fike's) idea about this whole thing was what started all of the fund raising (at Clemson)," Bennett continued. "It all goes back to him. He's the granddaddy, the patriarch, of it all."

IPTAY's main target in the beginning was to improve the football team. Now, over nine million dollars a year are raised through IPTAY for athletic scholarships only. No other use can be made of the original contribution. However, interest earned on the money is available through the IPTAY Board of Directors for the purpose of equipment in other departments of the university, or band uniforms, or the construction or addition to athletic buildings and facilities.

Neely, Fike and others had a vision in the mid 30's, but maybe it was Professor Walter M. Riggs, the first Tiger football coach (1896) and later college president, who really showed the institution's support of football in 1899. He said: "So long as the game of football helps to make better men of our students, stronger in body, more active in mind — men full of energy, enthusiasm and an indomitable personal courage; men not easily daunted by obstacles or opposition; who control their tempers and restrain their appetites, who can deal honorably with a vanquished adversary, and can take victory moderately and defeat without bitterness.

"And as long as a football helps the student in his college duties, instead of hindering him; give zest and pleasure to college life, make name and fame for the college on account of victories won, not only by skill and prowess of the team on the gridiron, but by their gentlemanly conduct in the streets of the town they play, in the hotels where they quarter, and on the trains.

"So long as it helps to bring about a closer bond of sympathy between students and members of the faculty by creating a common interest apart from the routine duties-so long as in all these ways the best interest of his and other colleges are advance, and the course of education aided in its highest mission, which is to make the best men out of material at hand, so long we will say for the game of football, long may it live and prosper."

Although these words were spoken some 35 years before the formation of IPTAY, the ideas expressed by Dr. Riggs are exemplified today in the total education program at Clemson.

The integrity of IPTAY is monumental. This is not a cold-blooded proposition to a young man or woman to "be good or be gone" because it is borne out by the fact that IPTAY has never yet reneged on its commitment to an athlete. When a young man or young woman is given a scholarship to Clemson on the theory that he or she is potential "star" athlete, that's what he or she gets — an assured education.

An athlete can forfeit the scholarship by flunking out or by being an incorrigible citizen of the student community-but there have been amazingly few of those over the last six decades.

A little more than $1,600.00 came into the coffers the first year of IPTAY in 1934, and even less the next year. The year (1954) Fike retired as president, the contributions jumped to more than $68,000 and it topped $82,000 the year he died (1956).

Dr. Fike was a prominent radiologist and physician and cancer specialist at Vereen Memorial Hospital in Moultrie, Georgia, where he died. A native of Spartanburg County, he was a 1908 graduate of Clemson. Before serving on the staff at Vereen, he was associated with the Steiner Clinic in Atlanta and with hospitals at Camilla and Adel, Georgia.

Dr. Fike was awarded an honorary Doctor of Science degree from Clemson in 1952 and was alumni representative on the Clemson Athletic Council for more than 20 years.

After graduation from Clemson, Dr. Fike taught classes at Emory University and at Atlanta Southern Dental College during a 20-year span and was the first southerner to be appointed director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

Somewhere today, Fike, as a Clemson graduate, has to be amazed and pleased that his secret organization in 1934 has grown to be the nation's leader in scholarship fund raising and a model that other schools emulate. As an educator, he is probably more pleased about the thousands of students that have received an education because of IPTAY.

Jess Neely was Clemson's head coach when IPTAY was formed in 1934. He had a lot to do with IPTAY's initial success, which carried over to Clemson's success on the gridiron in 1939.

The Last Word

By Tim Bourret
Sports Information Director

This past July, 88-year-old Gene Willimon came to my office with an idea. A young Willimon relative had taken part in Jack Leggett's Clemson baseball camp and he thought the local media should do a story on it. He thought the camp was run efficiently, was a great learning tool for youngsters, and presented Clemson athletics in a positive light.

Yes, at age 88, just a month before his death, Gene Willimon's mind was still preoccupied with trying to make Clemson a better place, and letting people know about it.

Willimon served Clemson with distinction for 27 years (1950-77) as Executive Secretary of IPTAY. George Bennett, a Clemson Hall of Fame administrator in his own right, will be the first to tell you that Willimon had a significant impact on the success of Clemson's scholarship fund-raising organization, an impact that has not gone unnoticed by long time members of the organization.

Willimon was honored by his selection to the Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame in 1986, was named an outstanding alumnus of the University and received the Thomas Green Clemson Associate Award. In 1992, he was honored by the South Carolina Hall of Fame with its Distinguished Service to Sports Award.

"I can't imagine anyone more dedicated to a school," said Bennett. "He did so much for Clemson and IPTAY it is hard to put it into words. The way our organization is run to this day was the result of Gene Willimon's theories of fund-raising. Many other organizations across the country use the same system he devised."

Bob Bradley, Clemson Sports Information Director emeritus, worked with Willimon between 1955-70. "There is no telling how many thousands of athletes got their education from Clemson because of Gene's fund-raising efforts and ideas."

Willimon became executive secretary of IPTAY in 1950. When he arrived, the organization had just over 4,000 members who were contributing $75,000 per year. When he retired in 1977, after 27 years of service, IPTAY counted nearly 9,000 members and had gone over the million dollar mark for the first time.

Willimon's love for Clemson dated to the early 1930s when he was a student and starter on the Tiger football team. He was a starter in 1932 and 1933, leading the team in scoring from his blocking back position in 1933.

"Gene and I were classmates," said Dr. R.C. Edwards, Clemson University President from 1959-79. "Gene's contributions didn't get that much publicity, but he didn't mind. The people who really knew Gene appreciated what he did. They knew he loved Clemson."

Ironically, Willimon was a member of the 1931 Clemson team that lost to The Citadel, 6-0. After that game, first-year Head Coach Jess Neely met in the parking lot outside the stadium with Clemson supporters and administrators to develop ideas to improve the program. The result of this conversation was the formation of IPTAY.

From a tradition standpoint, Willimon made the greatest contribution in Clemson athletics history. Few people realize that the tradition of Howard's Rock came from Willimon, not Frank Howard. "In the mid 1960s, an alum named S.C. Jones brought Coach Howard a white flint rock from Death Valley, CA," recalled Bradley. "Mr. Jones thought it would be a good idea to have a rock from Death Valley, CA in Clemson's Death Valley."

But, Coach Howard let that rock sit in the back of his office for nearly a year. In the spring of 1965, Howard was cleaning out his office and Willimon happened to be there during the process. Howard told Willimon to take the rock and throw it over the fence, get it out of his office.

Ever mindful of the intentions of his IPTAY members, Willimon took the rock and had it mounted on a pedestal at the top of the east endzone of Death Valley. He had a plague that told the story of the rock affixed to the pedestal.

Prior to Clemson's September 24, 1966 game with Virginia, Howard told his players to rub the rock as they made their decent down the hill into Clemson Memorial Stadium. "He told the team that anyone who was going to give 110 percent that day, to rub the rock," said Bradley. "He told the players who didn't plan to give maximum effort to keep their hands off that rock."

It just so happened that Clemson overcame an 18-point deficit in the final 17 minutes to defeat the Cavaliers, 40-35. Howard told the story of the rock and how it gave his players "Magic Powers" on his television show the next morning. A tradition was born.

This past summer the Rock has been getting a face lift while the East endzone of Death Valley has renovated. It has a new pedestal, and has a new sparkle for the first season of the 21st century.

Ironically, Willimon passed away during the time the rock was out of the stadium this past summer. When it was reset in late August, a brick with Gene Willimon's name on it was placed next to the pedestal that holds the rock, something all future Clemson players will see when they make their celebrated entrance.

No one is more deserving of such a sacred position next to Howard's Rock because Gene Willimon's fertile mind did so much for the foundation of IPTAY and Clemson's athletic heritage.

Gene Willimon

Gene Willimon was presented Clemson's Distinguished Service Award, one of his many honors for his service in the Athletic Department.

BUILDING RELATIONSHIPS

"Building a strong relationship starts with trust. Trust that is earned. Yeargin did what they said, on time, on budget. We are impressed and so are our customers. Thanks!"

M.D. Clayton, General Manager Precision Weaving, Inc.

When Precision Weaving, Inc., a division of the Marmon Group of Chicago decided to build a new 80,000 sq. ft. manufacturing plant in South Carolina, they chose Yeargin Construction, Inc. to manage their design and construction.

Yeargin's design/build experience, client-focused win-win attitude, and cost effective approach to the job were deciding factors.

The fast-track partnering effort between all the team members resulted in a first-class facility for Precision Weaving, Inc., built on schedule and within budget. A true win-win relationship for all.
